TO THE PUBLIC.
THE time being fixed on, when the MILITARY LAND (commonly called Knox's) WARRANTS, granted to the United States' army, are to be registered and located,—the subscribers have explored that tract of land on which those warrants are to be laid; with a view, and for the purpose of offering their services as locaters.
We take the liberty of suggesting, "that weare at least as well acquainted with the situation, quality of the soil, &c. of the different townships in the aforesaid tract, as any other person:" this will, perhaps, appear more clearly, by observing, that WILLIAM C. SCHENK assisted in running the Indian boundary line; at which time he considerably traversed that tract: he also assisted in surveying and laying it off into townships, and at other times ranged over it, to gain information. But to obtain a more complete and accurate knowledge, we have lately spent between two and three months, with several assistants, in particularly examining the different townships and quarter townships; by which means we have acquired an accurate knowledge of the whole district.—We now offer our services to the public, as Locaters, with assurances that we will locate every persons warrants intrusted to us to the best advantage, agreeably to their rights of location, which is to be determined according to law. For our services we demand the one equal tenth part, either in lands or warrants, when we locate a full tract, of four thousand acres or more, for one person or firm; the land to be taken in a square, at a corner of the tract; which corner is to be equitably determined before the time of location.—The one equal sixth part, in cash or warrants, when we connect and locate any amount less than four thousand acres. We will be in Philadelphia from December next, until after the time of location, to transact this business. Any person wishing to satisfy himself farther, will please to call on us, by letter, (postage paid) or otherwise; when due attention will be paid, and such vouchers may be seen as we have to offer, which we hope will be satisfactory.

THE LAY PREACHER.

"And Israel said unto Joseph, now let me die since I have seen thy face, because thou art yet alive."

The story of Jacob and his family is, confessedly, one of the finest specimens extant, either in ancient or modern writings, of the force and beauty of simple narrative. Artless and unadorned, it conveys to the mind, with resistless energy, the most salutary and important instruction, while it strongly engages the more virtuous affections of the heart, and leaves behind it a sympathy, at once "pleasing and mournful to the soul."

The character of the patriarch appears alike interesting and lovely, whether we behold him buffeted by the storms of adversity or see him wafted cheerily on by the favoring gale of prosperity. When misfortunes and grief assail him, he either withstands them to the last, or yields, not like a coward who faintheartedly shrinks from the encounter, but like a strong man, borne down by superior power. Who, "if his heart be made of penetrable stuff," can behold, without emotion, the venerable man, great in grief, struggling against that host of evils which thickened upon him and seemed ready to overwhelm him and his children, during the mysterious behaviour of Joseph, in the land of Egypt? Who can look indifferently upon the doubts, anxiety and distraction which preyed upon the mind and weighed down the spirits of the aged father, when to rescue himself and his family from the threatening jaws of famine, he at first refused and afterwards, reluctantly, consented to hazard the person of his darling Benjamin in the hands of a foreigner, who had already, in an unaccountable manner, consigned to prison his son Simeon? Deeply afflicted by what had already happened, and filled with apprehensions of further disasters, he thus tenderly expostulates with those who endeavor to suppress his fears: "Me have ye bereaved of my children—Joseph is not, and Simeon is not, and ye will take Benjamin away." Then suddenly crowded to his recollection the images of his long-lost Joseph, whom he supposed to have been miserably devoured by "some evil beast," and of his once much loved Rebecca, "now to the dust gone down," for whose love a seven-years servitude had seemed but a few days. Of her Benjamin was now the only surviving son. Unable to smother the emotions excited by such recollection, he concludes: "My son shall not go down with you; for his brother is dead and he is left alone; if mischief befal him, then shall ye bring down my grey hairs with sorrow to the grave." At length, however, finding himself no longer able to withstand the pressing entreaties of his other sons, and the still more pressing demands of unrelenting necessity, his resolution is changed, though his apprehensions continue unremoved. "If it must be so now," said he, "do this; take of the best fruits of the land in your vessels—and take also your brother and arise, go again unto the man, and God Almighty give you mercy before the man, that he may send away your other brother and Benjamin. "If I be bereaved of my children I am bereaved."

Having thus fervently committed his cause to the disposal of HIM who disposeth of all things, and looking to Him, in preference to Sovereign Reason and Philosophy, to he prepares to meet the worst.—But now behold the storm which had long been gathering and darkening over his head, threatening to sweep away the last support of his declining years and to sink him into the depths of despair and misery, is in a moment dispersed, and joy superior breaks in upon his soul. He learns, from Egypt, that his son Joseph is yet alive; and not only alive, but that, in consequence of his wisdom and virtue, he is exalted to be "lord over all Egypt," and has sent an invitation for him to remove, with his possessions, to that land of wealth and abundance. When Jacob knew this, he said, "it is enough. Joseph is yet alive and I will go and see him before I die." He sets out accordingly—meets his son "who was dead and is alive," and ardently embracing him, exclaims: "Now let me die, since I have seen thy face!"

"Raze out the written troubles of the brain,"

Such is the interest which parents take in seeing the prosperity of a child. When the evening of life approaches, when the knees begin to totter with the weight of incumbent years, when the ordinary pleasures and amusements of life become tasteless and insipid, and when the heart no longer vibrates to those lighter joys which thrill through the bosoms of the young and gay; then the joys, the wishes and the hope of the declining parent contract themselves to a single point and center upon the welfare of his children. If in this he is disappointed—if children prove untoward and ignominious, they are sure to "bring down the grey hairs" of their parents, "with sorrow to the grave." Let such be made to feel that

"The purest treasure mortal times afford
Is—spotless reputation; that away
Men are but gilded loam or painted clay."

To you who are parents I shall not attempt a description of the comfortless days and sleepless nights which result from a painful apprehension of the fall and ruin of a wanton and giddy daughter, or of the infamy of a riotous, intemperate and wayward son. You sadly realise, that the sickness and death of your children is, indeed, "grievous and heavy to be borne," but, that their disgrace and infamy is past endurance, excruciating, tormenting.

To you who are children the remembrance ought always to be present, that the souls of your parents are so bound up in your own, that every lewd and intemperate debauch, every licentious and beastly riot, every vicious and disgraceful action is a poisoned shaft with which you barbarously pierce their inmost souls, contaminating the source of every enjoyment, and polluting the fountain even of life itself. You thus voluntarily become their destroyers, while you have it in your power to be their support, their consolation and "their exceeding great reward." You have it in your power, by the practice of diligence, chastity, temperance, probity and "whatsoever things are honest and of good report," to sooth the attendant sorrows of decrepid age and to "light up a smile in the" furrowed "aspect" of your decaying parents. With you it lies to cheer and sustain their sinking spirits, and render the evening of their life, like that of a long and ardent summer's day, placid, refreshing and serene. Then, "when the last dread hour is come," and parting life grows dim and tremulous, as the weak glimmerings of an expiring taper, death—stingless death descends like a peaceful sleep.—their eyes are closed, and—they are willingly "gathered to their people."—

The Lay Preacher of Pennsylvania.

The nonsense and democracy of America united in censuring Mr. Jay, because he did not communicate his powers and instructions, when he was negotiating with England to citizen Munroe the misrepresentative of the United States at France. The demos, in and out of Congress, ranted and scolded both at the President and Mr. Jay, because the former did not instruct the latter to communicate his instructions to, and that the latter refused to account from day to day of his progress in negotiation to the bon citoyen, who itched, in all his members, to tell this progress to his masters in Paris!

Why do not these same good patriots now shew their consistency, and bellow away on the President to direct the envoys to France to send a copy of their instructions and proceedings to Mr. King? Or let them shew, if they can, why the king of England has not as good grounds to expect a knowledge of the instructions and progress of our envoys at Paris, as the directory of France had to be acquainted with those of Mr. Jay at Lonon.

A Frenchman advertises for sale, among various articles of perfumery, several pair of duelling pistols. We think these duelling pistols might be advantageously exported to France, where the ruffians of the republic might have full liberty to employ them, in blowing out each other's brains. In a city of benevolence and brotherhood it is perfectly consistent, and nicely quadrates with the French philosophy to advertise the implements of murder. If the rage for peacemaking and speaking kindly to Gallic villains continue, we may expect to see our young Quakers taking up fire arms at the above Frenchman's shop, and True Americans willing to demolish each other upon the most patriotic, truly great, free and independent principles.

Field Marshal Suwarrow, the illustrious Christian Hero, and Defender of our Faith, is, they tell us, routed with great slaughter; the British forces in Holland have failed in their enterprize undertaken for the delivery of that country; and the Militia of England and Scotland have refused to march: but, as the eternal is yet in Heaven, as his Divine Justice never sleeps, our creed will still be, NIL DESPERANDUM.

Tu ne cede malis, sed contra audentior ito.

No people on earth are so sadly quizzed by Foreign Newspaporials (to borrow an expression from Ben. Russe) as the people of the United States. Every lying, vaporing, varlet news-monger of Europe, is in his element here, and here they all fret and strut their hour, fearless of the ire of indignation.

David Allison, Esq. actually died, of the Yellow Fever, in the year 1798, in the Prison of Philadelphia, as we are assured; and the report in circulation to the contrary, is without foundation.

"Full oft by holy feet our ground is trod,
Of devils good plenty here you may espy,
A little spare and haggard man of God
Is one perhaps you'll mark among the fry;
He has a roguish twinkle in his eye—
Which, when observ'd, he shrinks into his mew,
And, straightway, recollects his piety anew.

Thomson.

[As THE LAY PREACHER is neither a rigid Calvin, nor a John Knox, he does not affect a style of uniform austerity, but strives to vary his manner, as much as possible, that, where he cannot rouse by reasoning, he may sooth by melody. His tone is sometimes soft, and sometimes loud, and if gay in one sermon, it is commonly grave in the next. He, at one time, exhibits a profile of character, and, at another a sketch of landscape. He sometimes looks into the political, and sometimes into the literary cabinet. As the present hour is a wintry one, he has chosen a serious essay for the inspection of his readers. It was originally composed in autumn, but as almanac writers says will serve, without any essential variation, for the meridian of Philadelphia, and may be pronounced by punning critics a discourse cold enough for any season, and equally dull in January, as in November.]

THE LAY PREACHER.

"We all do fade, as a leaf."

THIS morning, when I opened my study shutters and saw the brown oak leaves flying thro' the turbid air, heard the "rocking winds piping loud," and remarked that the frozen ground was half concealed by the snow and sleet of November, I turned to Isaiah, and pensively copied my text. Tho' naturally of a lively temperament, yet the state of my spirits is regulated much by the season and by the sky; and my gaiety, like mercury in the philosophic tube, rises in warm weather, and sinks in cold. The body of a sedentary valetudinarian, like exposed vegetables, contracts and is impaired by the operation of frost; and, perhaps, as there is a well known sympathy, his mind languishes, as autumn fades. At least, if the intellectual powers do not lose their tone, they have an impression of melancholy from the whole scenery of nature, at this dull and tempestuous season. Nor is this the peculiar infelicity of the hypocondraic and the invalid. Many of the robust of my acquaintance who in spring can join in chorus with the robin, and in summer dance like Ariel, "under the blossom that hangs on the bough," will mope during a day in November like solitary birds. In fact, such is the law of our being, that we are generally animated by spring and sunshine, and generally depressed by cold and by clouds. The vicissitudes of the weather affect certain constitutions much more than others, but we have SHAKESPEARE'S authority that life itself is "servile to every skiey influence;" and Dr. JOHNSON, in some very feeling and forcible lines, declares that not only the blasted plain confesses the power of the gloomy season, but that its reign spreads still wider, and that he feels its power usurp his breast.

"Enlivening hope and fond desire,
Resign the heart to spleen and care;
Scarce frighted love maintains his fire,
And rapture saddens to despair."

He adds pathetically, that man still changes with the changeful year, and is the slave of sunshine and of gloom. THOMPSON, who was a diligent observer of every peculiarity of the seasons, remarks that the power of what he terms philosophic melancholy, is in every breeze of autumn; and no season is more favourable to "woo lone quiet in her silent walks." In spring he calls for gay companions to rove with him in quest of trout from the brook, or flowers from the bank; but in autumn, most of his lines are in a pensive tone, his images, to borrow a term from painting, are in a deep shadow, and he talks of "the lonesome muse."

But most men, however inexpert to describe like the poets the "ruffian blasts" of this stormy season, feel the baleful influence upon the body, and mark gloomy thoughts rising in the mind. We look around us, and discern a great revolution in the vegetable kingdom. We see the lately verdant oak stretching out as it were his bare arms to implore pity from the boisterous gale. In the room of aspiring corn and waving wheat, we see the dry shorn stalk and the shrivelled stubble. Instead of hearing the gay birds in concert, we see them on the wing, migrating to the south, and eager to warble under a softer sky. Whether our walk is in the forest or the field, we receive constant warnings of the decay of the year, and look sorrowfully at the leaves dropping from the woods, as at the last figures in a funeral procession.

In this mood of sadness, viewing the desolate state of nature, how natural for us to feel the sentiment and use the expression of the prophet "We all do fade as a leaf."

"Dark as the leaves, that quiver on the sprays,
Like them man flourishes, like them decays,"

Not only life droops, but its hopes, its schemes, its enjoyments grow sallow with years, and though we may bask in the June of joy for a time, yet the mournful November of our days "follows harsh, and shuts the scene." I think, as I now see the flakes of snow fast falling at my door, that they too, no less than the foliage of spring, are emblematical of much of the Friendship, much of the love of this inconstant world. The snow seems fair, and promises well, but try it, and like a perjured female, it is faithless and cold. The last month of autumn presents in every driving gale, and on every discolored leaf some memorandum of nature's change; and if, after the first flush of life is over, we enquire of those once foremost in attachment and prodigal of professions, we shall find, in the emphatical language of the east, "that the love of many waxed cold," and that man, as well as plants, alters with the season. These reflections, though melancholy, accord with the time of the year. It is in fact, hallowed time; it is the lent of nature. A period of dreariness, in which every one feels unwonted gloom, which is manifested aloud not only by a sedate Lay Preacher, but by authors the most jocund, even by the sprightly Miss Seward, with whose descriptive lines I shall close a sermon, already pronounced too long by half my gayer readers.

"'Twas here, even here, where I now sit reclin'd,
And autumn's sighs sound hollow in the wind;
Loud, and more loud, the blast of evening raves,
And strips the oaks of their last lingering leaves.
The eddying foliage in the tempest flies
And fills, with duskier gloom, the thickening skies,
And sinks the sun behind the howling hill,
And rushes with hoarse streams the mountain rill;
And now, with rustling billow cold and pale,
Runs, swoln and dashing down the lonely vale;
While to these tearful eyes grief's faded form
Sits on the cloud, and sighs amid the storm"

MR. RHOADES,

Please to publish the following elegant extract from an answer of his Royal Highness the Duke of Clarence, to an address presented him by the virtuous, opulent and respectable citizens of Shelburne, Nova-Scotia. Z.

THE EXTRACT.

"How much happier do you in your situation feel yourselves to be, than those miserable and deluded men do, who have on this continent forfeited their fidelity to their Sovereign and the advantages arising from being subjects to his Majesty."

IMPORTANT!

Office of the N. York Gazette, 1 o'clock, Friday morning, Dec. 13.

At a late hour last night, we met the ship Argus, capt. Main, coming up, in 47 days from St. Sebastians. From our correspondent, we have received Paris papers to the 16th of October. We lament that we have only time to announce summarily their important contents. These papers give the official details of Massena's operations from the 25th of Sept. to the 8th October, by which it appears that on the 25th of September he passed the Lent at Dietikon, beat gen. Korsakoff, and summoned Zurich to surrender—the terms were not accepted, and the town was taken by assault.—In the mean time, Suwarrow had advanced to act in concert with the armies lately attacked by Massena, but finding them defeated, avoided an action by keeping the mountains—Here he was however attacked, and left 2000 wounded, a part of his artillery, and almost his whole baggage. In the meantime Korsakoff, informed of Suwarrow's situation, hastily assembled a corps, composed of the remnant of his army and that of Hotze the Bavarian contingent, and that of Conde, attempted to march to the Thur, and from thence to Zurich. Massena attacked him, forced him to repass the Rhine with loss. Massena, in these battles, states, that he has taken 18,000 prisoners, more than 100 cannon, and 13 stands of colours—that 4 generals have been taken, and 5 killed. Loss of the enemy in toto, more than 30,000 men. [Of this we shall give a translation.]

Paris, October 14—It is reported, that at the moment when the Directory were writing a letter of felicitation to Buonaparte upon his last victory, they learned that he had landed at Frijus. It is supposed, from this, that his return was not expected by the Directory.

Moreau is here—Buonaparte is expected this evening. [The day capt. Mann sailed, positive news of Buonaparte's arrival at Paris was received at St. Sebastians.]

Franckfort, is is said was taken by the French, Oct. 5.

☞ Translations, in detail, with interesting Marine articles, are now preparing for this Gazette.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 12.

Arrived last evening, Ship Anthony Mangin, capt. Edwards, from Embden, which he left the 22d of October. We are sorry that no papers have been brought from this interesting quarter, by the above arrival, later than the 27th of September, which capt. E. accounts for by saying that all regular communication between Embden and other parts of the continent was cut off, and that no English or Dutch papers of late dates could be obtained.

The verbal intelligence we have collected from captain Edwards, is confirmatory of the latest news via Boston, that in the engagement of the 3d of November, the Gallo Batavians lost ground, but that the Russians and English lost by far the most men, insomuch that they held the ground they had taken but two or three days, when they had to make a retreat to avoid being surrounded, at far as the Helder, where they were entrenching themselves, and making winter quarters. The opinion of American and British travellers, from the interior of Holland, of whom captain E. received the above information, was, that from the great loss of the Anglo Russians on the 3d, the antipathy and zeal of the Dutch which had been excited by the cruelties of Russian soldiery, and from the swarms of French who were pouring from all quarters into all Holland, they would either evacuate even the Helder, or be surrounded and made prisoners.

Captain E. further mentions, that the king of Prussia had transmitted a spirited remonstrance to St. James's, against an infringement of his sovereignty by the British who had cut some vessels out of the Ems, within his jurisdiction.

By a vessel which arrived from England at Embden, a day or two before captain E. sailed, he learnt that commotions had taken place both in England and Scotland, by the militia, who had positively refused to leave the kingdom.

Capt. E. has favored us with the names of the following vessels, left at Embden the 22d of October:

Ship Robert, of Baltimore, to sail in 3 or 4 days.

Ship John, M'Neil, of Philadelphia.

Ship Susannah, Lightburn, of Charleston to sail soon for London.

Brig Bellisarius, Gale, of Boston, do. do.

Brig ——, Coffin, for New-York, sail soon.

Brig ——, Holland, of Newburyport, and an hermaphrodite brig from do. just arrived.

A northward built schooner, name unknown, was going into Embden, as capt. E. came out.

The Cleopatra, capt. Conner, from Baltimore, arrived at Bremen the 10th October.

The Harriet, capt. Martin, was to leave Hamburgh about the 25th October, for Baltimore.

November 27, spoke the United States schooner Experiment, capt. Maley, out 6 days from the Capes, in lat. 29, 32, long. 67, all well.

A COMPENDIOUS SYSTEM

Of Practical Surveying and dividing of land; briefly comprized under the following heads, viz.

TWENTY-THREE Geometrical Definitions, eleven Geometrical Poſitions, exhibiting to view the properties and dependencies of triangles; followed by problems and examples preparatory to Trigonometry, heights and diſtances. Then fifteen problems and examples neceſſarily previous to calculating a Survey ſucceeded by ſeven ſurveys, the area of the four firſt is found geometrically, and of the whole number by difference of latitude and departure, ſhewing how to take an inacceſſible boundary, find the bearing and diſtance of the cloſing line without running it, alſo the diſtances to an inacceſſible corner from the two adjacent corners, followed by examples of offſets on to winding ſtreams of water, ſhewing how to aſcertain the area without the trouble of meaſuring the windings with chains and inſtruments—a crooked water courſe ſtraitened, and a quantity of land on each ſide found by theſe offſets.

Ten examples of dividing land, with many ſub-diviſions, leading into the moſt critical circumſtances that can occur in practice; an example of Interſections, and an example ſhewing how the bearings of a field may be truly taken where the needle is attracted, altho' the attraction may vary in quantity and denomination at every ſtation; examples ſhewing the method of meaſuring by the chain only. All the rules are clear and explicit. This work contains the tables of difference of latitude and departure and of logarithms.

Orders ſent to Joſeph and James Cruckſhank, Bookſellers, No. 87, High-ſtreet, Philadelphia, Bonſall and Niles, 173, Market Street, Baltimore, or the Subſcriber in Wilmington (Del.) will be duly attended to.

SCHUYLKILL

PERMANENT BRIDGE.

For the information of the Stockholders in the company, incorporated for the erection of a Permanent Bridge over the river Schuylkill, and others of our fellow citizens who are deſirous that this uſeful undertaking ſhould ſucceed, it is thought expedient and proper, by the President and Directors of that company to ſtate the preſent ſituation of its affairs.

THE company was incorporated on the 27th day of April, 1798; and by a clauſe in the law authorizing this incorporation, the legiſlature may reſume the rights, &c. granted to the company, if they do not "proceed to carry on the work" in two years, and complete the bridge in five years, after they had been incorporated.

As ſoon as practicable, the company proceeded to the choice of the officers required by law; and the Preſident and Directors have been conſtant in their endeavours to encreaſe the number of ſubſcribers to the ſtock. The number of ſhares ſubſcribed when the company was organized, was 5216 With all the exertions made ſince, it is now only 5638; though of the 15,000 contemplated by law, 12,000 (at ten dollars each) are allotted for the active capital of the company.

As the public opinion, coinciding with that of the Preſident and Directors, appeared to be fixed on the ſcite at the weſt end of Market ſtreet, it was deemed a primary object to obtain from the corporation of the city, their right to the ferry at that place. Negociations were accordingly commenced for the purpoſe.—Theſe ended in a contract with the city corporation, to the following effect—

1. 5000 dollars to be paid to the city corporation when the ſubſcriptions to the btidge ſtock amount to the value of 11,000 ſhares—a like ſum in four months thereafter with intereſt—5000 dollars farther in eight months—and the like ſum in twelve months, with intereſt.

2. The city corporation take, as payment for 20,000 dollars, (to make the whole conſideration monies 40,000 dollars) two thouſand ſhares in the bridge ſtock, on terms detailed in the contract.

3. The 11,000 ſhares being ſubſcribed, and the firſt inſtalment of the purchaſe monies paid, the right to the ferry and its enumerated appurtenances, with certain parts of the ſcite and the brick tavern, to be conveyed to the bridge company, on their mortgaging the premiſes, in the contract mentioned, for 15,000 dollars, the reſidue of the pecuniary payments, with intereſt.

4. If the erection is not completed in the period fixed, or which may be fixed by the legiſlature, the property and rights are to re veſt in the corporation of the city, on terms preſcribed in the contract; which contains other ſubordinate arrangements, too lengthy to be herein particularly detailed.

The ſum agreed to be given was unavoidable. We found the councils of the city inflexibly determined not to take leſs. We deemed it eligible to make ſome ſacrifices (if any we have made) to avoid competitions injurious and embarraſſing, both in the commencement and progreſs of our intended enterprize.

Warned by experience of the fatal conſequences of beginning works, requiring extenſive pecuniary ſupport, without a certainty of its being within our power, we agreed to that part of the contract requiring 11,000 ſhares to be actually ſubſcribed, before it takes effect.—We do not deſire to conceal our indiſpoſition to embark in this undertaking, until the number of ſhares ſubſcribed ſhall, at leaſt, equal that required by this contract. Nor ſhall we engage in the buſineſs until the inſtalments directed by law ſhall be in the treaſurer's hands, to an amount ſufficient to encourage us to begin the work, with ſolid proſpects of complying with our engagements to thoſe with whom we may contract.

We have received a number of plans in conſequence of our advertiſement for the purpoſe, but have made no ſelection. We ſhall prefer that which unites œconomy with ſtability, and accommodation to all circumſtances attached to the place of erection. The ſcite muſt be fixed before the plan is adopted It muſt be perceived that a deficiency of ſubſcriptions to our ſtock prevents our obtaining the ſcite proviſionally contracted for, which, however expenſive it may appear, is certainly the moſt eligible and productive.

We have not called for the ſecond inſtalment, from thoſe who have already ſubſcribed, becauſe we do not think ourſelves warranted, from preſent appearances, to commence the work. The monies already paid (one dollar on each ſhare ſubſcribed, deducting our neceſſary expenditures, which will appear in our accounts) lie uſeleſs to us in the bank. They muſt remain inactive, till by further ſubſcriptions, we are enabled to proceed in the execution of our truſt; as we have no authority to employ them for any other purpoſes, than thoſe directed by the act of incorporation. Our minutes and accounts will be laid before the ſtockholders, at the next meeting for the annual election of officers. They are always open for the inſpection of the members of the company.

All the books and forms required for the progreſs of the buſineſs are prepared; and we are otherwiſe completely ready to proceed, if the moſt eſſential requiſite were in our poſſeſſion. It will be ſeen that there is a deficiency of 5362 ſhares to give validity to our contract with the city corporation, and to juſtify us in commencing the work.

We have a ſtrong perſuaſion, founded on accurate information of the product of bridges in other ſtates, and calculations of profit here, that inveſtments in our ſtock will be equal, in point of emolument, with thoſe made in any other permanent funds in this city. The company may divide, in biennial dividends, 15 per cent. annually during twenty-five years; and if the bridge be made free, they are to receive its value on a fair eſtimate.—The Charles River Bridge near Boſton (1500 feet long and 42 wide) coſt 50,000 dollars, and yields from 20 to 24 per cent. clear of all expences. The bridge at Cambridge (7000 feet long and 42 wide) coſt 80,000 dollars; and yields from 12 to 14 per cent. Some deductions have been made, to remedy defects in the timber originally uſed, but theſe expences will no longer be neceſſary. Immenſe bodies of ice aſſail theſe bridges without injury.—Neither of them are better ſituated to command toll, than that we contemplate over the Schuylkill, which is only 400 feet wide.

Whether we ſhall proceed or not, depends on the diſpoſition of our fellow citizens to encourage the undertaking. We cannot help foſtering the flattering expectation, that, from motives of public ſpirit and private emolument, we ſhall yet be ſupported in our ardent wiſhes to complete an erection, eminently promotive of the intereſts, as well as the credit of our city.

The ſcite being in itſelf inviting, and the object of great public utility, as well to ourſelves as to our poſterity, we more confidently ſolicit ſubſcriptions.

By order,

RICHARD PETERS,

President.

The Swift-Sure,

A NEW LINE OF STAGES,

NOW RUNNING BETWEEN

PHILADELPHIA & NEW-YORK,

By the ſhort and pleaſant road of Buſſleton, Newtown, Scotch Plains, Springfield and Newark.

THE excellence of this road, the populouſneſs of the country through which it paſſes, with ſundry other advantages, which render it ſo far preferable to the Old Road through Briſtol, Brunſwick, &c. long ago ſuggeſted the propriety of its becoming the Grand Thorough-Fare from Philadelphia to New York. During the preſent year, a minute ſurvey of it has been taken, and its ſuperiority over the Old Road, both in winter and ſummer, has been clearly aſcertained.—There are good bridges over all the other waters but the Delaware, and here the croſſing is performed with great ſafety and in leſs than half the time required at the Trenton Ferry. The road is ſeveral miles ſhorter than the old road, but this is amongſt the leaſt of its advantages, becauſe daily experience proves to us, that diſpatch as well as comfort in traveling principally depend on the goodneſs of the road and the levelneſs of the country, and, in theſe reſpects, the New Road is, beyond all compariſon, the beſt. It preſents none of thoſe rocky hills, which render the Old Road ſo fatiguing between the Delaware and Newark. The ſoil, too, for the greater part, is ſuch as to produce but little mud in winter, and very little duſt in ſummer, which circumſtance, added to the beauty of the country, and a conſiderable proportion of ſhade, muſt always render travelling in the latter ſeaſon peculiarly agreeable.

The Swift Sure ſtarts from PHILADELPHIA, at 6 o'clock every morning (Sundays excepted) from the GREEN TREE, oppoſite the Lutheran Church, North Fourth ſtreet. It goes through Frankford to Buſtleton; where it ſtops to breakfaſt; from Buſtletown it goes through Newtown to Penny-town to dinner; from Penny-town through Hopewell, Millſtone, Bound-brook, Quib'ſtown and Plainfield to Scotch Plains to lodge. The next morning it ſtops at Springfield to breakfaſt, from whence it goes through Newark and arrives at New-York at noon.

From NEW-YORK it ſtarts at 3 o'clock in the afternoon (from Paulus Hook) and arrives at Philadelphia the next evening. For ſeats at New-York, application may be made to Edward Bardin, Old Coffee houſe, to A. Mathieu, corner of Naſſau and John ſtreets, to B. Many, no. 43, Courtlandt, corner of Greenwich ſtreet, and to Michael Little, at his hotel, no. 42, Broad ſtreet.

Fare for paſſengers, Five Dollars.
Way paſſengers 6 Cents per Mile.

Each paſſenger is allowed to take on 14lbs. of baggage carriage free; but all other baggage, taken on by a paſſenger, will be charged at 4 cents per pound weight.

With reſpect to packages ſent on without paſſengers, the proprietors preſume they have adopted a regulation, which, though unknown to other lines of ſtages, they think muſt meet with general approbation, They pledge themſelves to make good every package on the following conditions. The perſon who delivers the package at the office ſhall ſee it entered in the ſtage-book, for which entry he ſhall pay 6 cents; he will then ſtate the value of the package, and pay (excluſive of the carriage) one per cent. on the value, as inſurance, and for which he will receive a receipt. Thus, for inſtance, if he eſtimates his package at one dollar, he will pay one cent. and if at one hundred dollars, he will pay one dollar inſurance, and in like proportion for packages of any other value.

Very few perſons it is preſumed, will diſlike this regulation; it will however, be optionable with every one to avail himſelf of this ſecurity or not. But the proprietors think it right to ſtate very explicitly, that they will be reſponſible for the ſafe delivery of no package, which is not regularly entered, and for which an inſurance receipt cannot be produced.

In the diſtribution of the route, the greateſt care has bren taken to fix on ſuch places and taverns as always afford a good accommodation and entertainment for the paſſengers at the moſt reaſonable rates The ſtages are well equipped furniſhed with fleet and ſteady horſes, and committed to the care of intelligent ſober and obliging drivers. The proprietors themſelves live at the different towns and villages where the ſtages will ſtop, ſo that the conduct of the perſons they employ is continually an object of their attention.—They take care alſo to ſee that the paſſengers are well provided for and politely treated at the taverns, and that no ſort of chicanery or inſolence is practiſed upon them; in ſhort, they have ſpared neither pains nor expence to render the SWIFT-SURE the very beſt line of ſtages in America.

The line has now run nearly a month, during which time a great number of gentlemen have gone through, both from Philadelphia and New-York. Every paſſenger has found the road to ſurpaſs very far all that has been ſaid of its excellence; and the Proprietors of the Swift Sure are extremely happy to hear the behaviou of their drivers, and the treatment at Taverns ſpoken of with the higheſt ſatisfaction.
